

August 2007 SB 14 Source Reduction Compliance Training

Additional training has been scheduled for SB 14, as listed below. The Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC), through co-sponsorship with various organizations, will hold a series of training sessions designed to assist businesses with the preparation of their 2006 source reduction documents. California businesses subject to the Hazardous Waste Source Reduction and Management Review Act of 1989 (SB 14) are required to prepare a Source Reduction Evaluation Review and Plan, a Hazardous Waste Management Performance Report, and a Summary Progress Report (SPR). Generators must prepare these three documents by September 1, 2007 and maintain them on site. Only the SPR is required to be submitted to DTSC by September 1, 2007.

These training classes will provide attendees with all information required to comply with SB 14. Attendees are guided through the steps of preparing their 2006 SB 14 documents. There are no changes to the requirements of SB 14 from the last 4-year cycle, but attendees may find the training sessions a good refresher. Each session, led by DTSC's Source Reduction Unit staff, is approximately three hours in length. To register for a class, please contact the individual listed for that event. If you have specific questions regarding the training agenda or the SB 14 program, or if you want DTSC to provide SB 14 training to your association, contact DTSC Office of Pollution Prevention and Technology Development at (916) 322-3670.

Please check this Web site frequently for newly scheduled classes and for additional details on scheduled classes.

There may be a nominal fee to attend these classes to cover the cost for refreshments and/or room. Please verify with the registration contact person.
